

Appendix I – Profile of work / Registrar Timetables

Advanced training in geriatric medicine at the Tasmanian Health Service (THS) South is spread across three distinct sites across the city of Hobart: the tertiary teaching hospital Royal Hobart Hospital (16 acute older persons beds, orthogeriatrics, and consults service), the subacute Repatriation Hospital (36 beds) and the Jasmine Unit (a secure 10 bed unit located within the Roy Fagan Centre in Lenah Valley, Hobart, for restorative care of older patients with delirium and dementia).

Five registrars work with the Aged Care department including two advanced trainee positions. Each rotation is for a four-month period, with no more than one trainee doing each timetable at one time. Preferences for rotations are chosen from the five below by the advanced trainee(s) and allocated with Supervisor input to best meet training needs. It is expected over a two-year period an advanced trainee would complete all five rotations.

The training program is designed to embed non-clinical roles as a key part of training in preparation for consultancy. Advanced trainees are allocated supervised responsibility for the departmental Morbidity and Mortality meetings and co-ordination of the local geriatric registrar teaching program, which is in addition to the regular protected videoconferenced geriatric training program.

The timetables reflect both formal training opportunities as well as service commitments and there are other learning opportunities (e.g. exposure to Allied Health Falls Clinic, Continence, Psychogeriatrics, and Advanced Parkinson's Therapy clinic) that are available and arranged during regular supervisor meetings.

Advanced trainees also attend a monthly rural outreach clinic (Oatlands or Huonville) with a supervising geriatrician. Please note that this is not included in the timetables due to consultants performing Outreach Services on different days to one another. At the Outreach clinics our trainees are encouraged to review patients independently with both direct and indirect supervision based on trainee competence and case complexity.
